Testing Equipment

Hydrometer

Handheld Sensor for Determining the Moisture Level of the Skin

Both economical and accurate, the Moritex Hydrometer easily checks the level of moisture in the corneal layer of the skin anywhere on the body to determine your skin's hydration level. If the level is too low, you may not be consuming enough fluids throughout the day. To operate, simply press the Hydrometer against your skin for two seconds; then a moisture level from 0-99 will be displayed on the LCD. Use the convenient reference scale next to the LCD to determine whether the moisture level is in the optimal range.

Unlike regular pH tape or litmus paper, the pad indicator of each test strip is super easy to read, thus giving you a more accurate reading. In addition, the strips measure in tight 0.25 increments so you'll know exactly what your pH is.

Code: 0185 pH Test Strips (High sensitivity; 90/box)

Refractometer (Brix Meter)

Great Tool to Help You Identify the Best Foods To Eat

The refractometer (also called a brix meter) will allow you to easily and quickly measure the brix level of any fruit or vegetable - all you need is a drop or two of the juice from the raw food (such as a tomato, orange or potato).

Brix levels directly correlate with the food's nutrient content levels. High brix levels = excellent quality food; low brix = poor quality. Many foods may look large and colorful - but can be nutrient deficient. Now you can select the quality of the foods you want to eat by measuring their brix levels (based on research from Acres USA).

Black Gold Humate

Promotes soil fertility and root growth; feeds beneficial soil microbes

What is humate? We call our humate the “thousand year-old compost”. Humate has been created in prehistoric swamps and forests from vegetation that has been composted over thousands of years. Its vast array of nutrients make it a premium soil enhancer and soil builder for healthy soil and plant life.

Why use humate? Humate can help create superior garden soil. It is naturally rich in fulvic and humic acids and carbons - all outstanding soil nutrient complexes that help build and buffer your soil against pH imbalance. Humate also contains large quantities of trace minerals. It promotes soil fertility, healthy plant growth, nutrient availability and feeds beneficial soil microbes. Humate also supports microorganisms that produce nitrogen.

Moisture Retention. Apply Black Gold Humate several times during the year (early spring, early summer, late summer and fall) to help build rich, fertile soil.

Natural vs. Artificial. Some soil products claim to be “natural” but are produced artificially. Our humate is an excellent product straight from nature and does not contaminate the soil, the earth’s environment or waterways.

Dragonite™

Quantum Basalt Minerals
Promotes Robust Soil Fertility
Mix in garden soil, planters or along walkways

Dragonite™ is a select source of quantum state, highly paramagnetic volcanic basalt minerals. When Dragonite™ minerals are applied to soil, it helps create a sustainable and superior alternative to undesirable chemical fertilizers and pesticides. It may be applied to soil at any time, but like all minerals, it is best when worked into the upper 3 to 6 inches of the topsoil.
